

The Saks Stores

Pennsylvania Avenue and Seventh Street.

A Suggestion to the Mothers of Boys.

Tomorrow the crowds will be smaller than next Saturday—or any day next week. Won't it be better to come tomorrow and select their Easter clothes? We want you to take time when you do come to thoroughly survey our stock. It's large—larger than it has ever been. Better, too. The designers have created comelier styles—and you cannot do your judgment justice in half seeing. Boys' clothing is one of the bulwarks of this business—and planning to supply the boys' needs engages our closest thought and greatest caution. We assume the responsibility of your satisfaction. We know that you look to us as leaders—and expect greater variety—greater value—greater advantage here than anywhere else. We know that there isn't a fault or a flaw here for disappointment to hang on.

Those of you who must count the cost carefully will find honest quality at the very bottommost price. While others who demand elegance with excellence can gratify their most extravagant wish. Here are some lots that will be on sale tomorrow—in which worth is in extraordinary excess of the price. Let it be to your profit.

THE LEAGUE MEETING

Action in the Case of Freedman May Be Taken.

TO REINSTATE BASE BALL IN FAVOR

Gus Weyhing Arrives and Leaves for Hampton.

CURRENT SPORTING NOTES

A rather sensational report comes from New York to the effect that one of the chief objects of the meeting of the magnates who convene in that city today will be the placing of President Freedman as to place the national game in that city on a successful and popular footing. The possibility of such a move makes the report important. Freedman was fined $1,000 because he refused to allow his club to play out a game with the Baltimore after Left Fielder Holmes had made use of objectionable language. This fine has never been paid, and the New York president declares in the most emphatic manner that he will close the gates of the polo grounds before he will submit to the penalty inflicted. In addition to this, Freedman has refused to associate with his brother magnates unless the fine is recalled. This program, as outlined in the report referred to, is to remit the $1,000 fine and persuade Freedman to get on good terms with his players. The league magnates recognize the fact that a good club in New York is essential to the success of the whole league, and unless Freedman is brought into line many thousands of dollars will be lost the coming season.

The strange part of the New York situation is that Freedman has several friends among the magnates who are backing him up in his controversy. For this reason nothing further can be done in the way of punishing the New York magnate. Counting himself as a voter, Mr. Freedman can rally to his support Soden of Boston, Rogers of Philadelphia, Kerr of Pittsburgh, and Dreyfus of Louisville. This gives the opposition but two majorities, and it takes more than that to discipline the president of a club. Freedman is too well fixed financially, to care a straw about the financial loss that goes with the fine, but he has grafted his idea into his brain that he is being unjustly treated, and this germ has developed to such proportions that at the present time the National League has a veritable white elephant on its hands. There is hardly another body of men connected with any sort of business that will come down to their high horses labeled "principles" and the National League magnates when there is a large sum of money at stake, and for this reason there is considerable credence placed on the reported self-scooping of President Freedman.

"Zack" Wrigley, short stop, and Pitcher Billy Donovan, the man with the steel arm of last year's Senators, arrived in Washington this morning and will remain with their friends in the city for a number of days. Wrigley and Donovan are on their way to Richmond, Va., where they will be located the coming season with the club representing that city in the American League. Both players are in exceptionally fine condition and are almost in shape to go into the game today and give a good account of themselves. Wrigley and Donovan during a conversation with The Star man this morning said they were sorry to leave the Washington club, but that they believed they would be back in the big league before the season is over. If hard, conscientious work will bring about this state of affairs, both players should do their best. Wrigley will captain the Richmond team, under the management of Jake Wells, and he can be depended upon to put out his life in the work. Donovan is still under reserve to the Washington club, and he will be given a full tryout out at Richmond. The manager of the club before they return north, and Donovan says he is willing to bet a suit of clothes that the Blue Birds will win the first game.

Pitcher Gus Weyhing of the Washington club arrived in this city last evening and was met at the depot by Secretary Robb, who immediately took him in tow, both leaving for Hampton, Va., an hour later. Augustus is out of the game, but he has been overlooked in the shuffle, but says he can easily see how the mistake was made in not notifying him. He is in splendid shape, and during the winter months has been bringing about this state of affairs. Speaking of the Senators, the veteran pitcher said he knew a majority of the players and was satisfied he will be better supported the coming season than last.

No game was played by the New Yorks yesterday at Charleston because of the lack of pitchers. In the game Wednesday the pitchers were worked down, and Manager Day did not want to force them again yesterday. The pitching situation is a serious matter and the New Yorks admit that unless something is done soon they will be unable to work in the league season opens. Doherty cannot do everything. Brampton has proven that he is not in the game. Colbourne is developing, and Parke Wilson says his arm is fine. Manager Day gives the same expression of opinion. Tiersman is still in the game. While batting at a pitched ball yesterday Gleason hit his bat fly and Doyle was hit on the shin. He limped about and went to his hotel before the New Yorks left. Doyle, however, will be in shape again tomorrow.

McCormick, who is scheduled to play shortstop with the Chicago ball team, is reported to have said in a conversation with one of the other players that he would not take the position under any circumstances. McCormick has not signed yet. It is now declared that he is not only having out for more money, but that he has thoroughly dissatisfied with the idea of standing in the depressed Dahlsen's stand and receiving the unfavorable criticism that is bound to come as soon as he makes his first bad error and at every mistake thereafter. While base on third, McGraw, a catcher and an outfielder would make the Giants strong enough to give that big team on the other end of the bridge a strong argument. The Giants, with Doyle on first, Gleason on second, Davis short and McGraw at third, would have a strong lineup. An outfielder and Tiersman, with Wilson to fill, would make a splendid outfield. The team is very strong in pitchers. It is hard to find a better quartet than Rudy, Meekin, Seymour and Doherty. Billy Robinson to catch and captain the team would make New York right up in the top row. It will be a great thing all around if the circuit is cut to ten clubs.

Rather Listless Bowling by the Carroll Institute Team.

The Carroll Institute bowling team did not develop its customary strength in the match at the institute with the Business Men's team Wednesday evening. All of the Carroll's scores were below 900, and the team having the championship practically decided in its favor played a rather listless game. The Business Men made a brilliant start in the third event, and reached one of the highest team totals of the season, and this score was not matched by any brilliant individual work, but by even play by all of the men on the team. Harlow, who is lead-
